

---

GDG SEMINAR

---

Hosted by Google & Centennial College

---

NETWORK

Shrihan Ala and I attended the GDG seminar hosted by Google & Centennial College. The first topic of discussion was how to make yourself more appealing in the tech industry. Micheal Huang, an account executive at Google introduced the importance of failure and learning from your mistakes.

---

AI SEMINAR

Henry Cho-Han Wu, a Google customer engineer, introduced Google's new AI tool, Gemini. An interesting feature noted was the hyper-customizable model, where the user can tailor Gemini for specific industries. We then discussed the influence AI will have on the future and in different industries.

---

GEMINI WORKSHOP

Following the AI seminar, it was time to get our hands dirty building our model using Gemini's architecture. I made an AI model which recommends off-the-counter medication based on the user's symptoms.

